

Bible Reading for the Week of October 11, 2026

Monday, October 12 – Genesis 22:1-24

Surely God's call upon Abraham to offer his son Isaac would not have made all that much sense to Abraham. How is God going to fulfill his promise if the promised offspring is going to die? What do we learn from this story about the life of faith? Consider today where in your life the Lord is calling you to trust in His Word even though it might not appear to make complete sense to you.

Tuesday, October 13 – Hebrews 6:13-20

Where does the author encourage the reader to look for confidence? How does this help us as we think about our own lives and the doubts that often fills our hearts? Pray that the Lord would increase your faith as you learn to trust in His Word.

Wednesday, October 14 – Psalm 100:1-5

Consider all of the things the psalmist calls God's people to in these verses. What does he say is the reason as to why the people of God should worship God? Meditate on these truths today and pray that you might worship the Lord truly this coming Lord's Day.

Thursday, October 15 – Ecclesiastes 1:1-11

In our text, the Preacher states that "all is vanity" (vs. 2). The term vanity conveys the idea of a vapor or a mist. To put it another way, life is fleeting. Meditate on some of the illustrations that the author uses to communicate this main principle. How might the knowledge of this fact of life actually serve to help a Christian live faithfully?

Friday, October 16 – Ecclesiastes 1:12-18

On the surface, it might appear as though the Preacher in Ecclesiastes is pessimist - the glass is always half-empty kind of person. Yet, we know this is not the case, given the fact that the Preacher of true wisdom ultimately points us to the Lord Jesus. How might the author's message actually serve as wisdom for Christian living? Are there ways in which you have sought 'gain' out of something that was never intended to produce that? Pray that the Lord would grant discernment in using the gifts he has given.

Saturday, October 17 – James 4:13-17

In what ways is the wisdom from James similar to the author of Ecclesiastes? How does James encourage Christians to live in light of the fact that our lives are but a mist? Pray that the Lord would enable you to live faithfully today.
