

Bible Reading for the Week of October 4, 2026

Monday, October 5 – Isaiah 44:21-28

In verses 21-22 the Lord reminds Israel of two specific things that he had done for them. What are they? How should Israel respond to God's kindness, according to verse 22? Pray that the Spirit would give you greater zeal for his glory in light of the mercy that he has shown you.

Tuesday, October 6 – Isaiah 44:21-28

Why should all of creation praise the Lord, according to verse 23? How might this picture that Isaiah provides relate to what will happen at the end of the world? Praise the Lord that he has redeemed you through the cross of Jesus Christ.

Wednesday, October 7 – Isaiah 44:21-28

How does the Lord identify himself in verses 24-28? How might it encourage you today to know that even king Cyrus was used by the Lord to bring about his purposes for Israel under the Old Testament? Pray that the Spirit would cause you to find comfort in the Lord who governs all the earth.

Thursday, October 8 – Psalm 66:1-20

Throughout this passage the Psalmist calls the people of Israel to praise God for what he has done for them. What are some of the reasons listed throughout the chapter? What Old Testament stories are these speaking about? How might Psalm 66 relate to the church in her worship? Give thanks to the Lord today for his marvelous works for the children of man.

Friday, October 9 – Psalm 67:1-7

Where does the blessing of God on Israel and the nations lead? Where do we see in Scripture the fact that the worship of God is the great end for the church? Take time to consider whether your view of God's worship aligns with the Bible's view. Pray that the Lord would cause you to take delight in his worship each Sabbath Day.

Saturday, October 10 – James 3:13-18

How does James contrast the wisdom of heaven from the wisdom of the world? Take time to meditate on the list provided in verse 17, and pray that the Lord would work that kind of wisdom into your life by means of his Spirit.
